WHY JAMES LEE GOT WELL.

Everybody in Zanesville, O., knows Mrs. Mary Lee, of rural route 8. She writes: "My husband, James Lee, firmly believes he owes his life to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery. His lungs were so severely affected that consumption seemed inevitable, when a friend recommended New Discovery. We tried it, and its use has restored him to perfect health." Dr. King's New Discovery is the King of throat and lung remedies. For coughs and colds it has no equal. The first dose gives relief. Try it! Sold under guarantee by all druggists 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

FOR SALE. We have on hand a 38-inch Chicago water meter in first class condition for which we have no use and will sell very cheap to anyone needing such machine.

URBANA

Weather somewhat cooler the past week with two very light showers but not sufficient to put ground in shape to plow for wheat.

Haying will be finished this week.

EXCELLENT HEALTH ADVICE

Mrs. M. M. Davison, of No. 379 Gifford Ave., San Jose, Cal., says: "The worth of Electric Bitters as a general family remedy, for headache, biliousness and torpor of the liver and bowels is so pronounced that I am prompted to say a word in its favor, for the benefit of those seeking relief from such afflictions. There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy that I know of." Sold under guarantee by all druggists. 50c.

Splendid Rain.

Wednesday evening this locality was visited by a thorough drenching rain. For nearly an hour the rain fell in torrents and continued at intervals well through the night.

The dry, parched ground was well saturated and plowing for wheat can now be resumed.

Late corn will be materially benefited. It will fill out better and be of better quality.

REAL ESTATE.

Will Soon Fly.

It appears that the world is on the eve of another wonderful forward step in its progress, like those that came from steam, the telegraph, the telephone and other manifold uses of electricity. The new era will be based on aerial navigation, regarding which such remarkable progress has been made in the last few years—more than in all the previous history of the world—that it is not unreasonable to expect that the solution of the problem is practically within the grasp of the several groups of ardent inventors who are devoting their lives to the task. In fact, aerial navigation has already passed beyond the experimental stage, so far as its use for military purposes is concerned. The United States, England, France and Germany have set the stamp of governmental approval upon the work of several inventors by accepting military airships designed under government contracts and subjected to exhaustive tests as to speed, safety and their capacity to travel in any direction and to remain in the air several hours. Captain Baldwin's airship, which was recently accepted by the United States government, maintained an average speed of between fifteen and twenty miles an hour with and against the wind, and it had no difficulty in reaching any desired height and in staying up in the air for periods of two hours and more. The air ship designed for the English government has demonstrated similar qualities, and the two German dirigible balloons, the Perseval and the Gross, have been delighting vast crowds of spectators along the Unter den Linden, the principal street of Berlin, for the past week by performing all sorts of intricate evolutions, sailing against a twenty-five-mile an hour wind and remaining in the air for hours at a time. The principal achievement, however, in aeronautics so far was the spectacular voyage of Count Zeppelin down the Rhine in his huge airship, 450 feet long by 30 feet in diameter. After numerous successful ascensions from his boat platform on Lake Constance, carrying as many as sixteen passengers in some of his flights and returning without difficulty to the starting place after spending a day in the air, Count Zeppelin took a party on his airship for a journey down the Rhine, over mountain ranges, rivers and many cities and towns, continuing his flight without any mishap for a period of eleven and one-half hours and at length at 11 o'clock at night landing with perfect ease on an island in the Rhine the enormous airship closing its wings and alighting on the spot chosen for the landing, as lightly and gracefully as a bird. After such a flight as this it can hardly be denied that the problem of aerial navigation has been practically solved, although not sufficiently as yet for commercial purposes. The next step, however, will be but a short one compared with the enormous advances that have been made within the past year or two. Count Zeppelin's voyage would have been a perfect success, and he would doubtless have returned to his starting point as easily as he came, but for the fact that in order to avoid a storm in the mountain range over which he crossed he was compelled to take his ship some 6,000 feet high and the excessive exhaustion of gas caused by the high altitude forced him to land before the homeward voyage was completed.

A Fable.

A ragged beggar was creeping along the street. He carried an old wallet, and asked every passer-by for a few cents. As he was grumbling at his lot he kept wondering why it was that people who had so much were never satisfied, but were always wanting more.

"If I only had enough to eat and wear, I should be satisfied," said the beggar.

Just at that moment Fortune came down the street. She saw the beggar and stopped. She said to him: "Listen! I have long wished to help you. Hold your wallet, and I will pour this gold into it. But I will pour only on this condition—all that falls upon the ground shall become dust. Do you understand?"

"Oh, yes, I understand," said the beggar.

"Then have a care," said Fortune. "Your wallet is old."

He opened the wallet quickly, and the yellow metal was soon pouring in.

"Is that enough?"

"Not yet," said the beggar.

"Isn't it cracking?" asked Fortune.

"Never fear. Just a little more," said the beggar. "And just another handful."

Another handful was added, and the wallet burst from end to end.—The Round Table.

THE BIG STORE

WE HAVE A MAMMOTH STOCK of new Dress Goods ready for you, any color, any fabric you want. We are a little early getting in our fall stuff but we have found that this is the time of year the people want to make up their fall and winter garments so we are prepared. Better come in and take a look. Plenty of gingham and other goods for school dresses for the girls, and if you come now you can get your choice. The prices are much less than usual owing to a big slump in the price of raw material.

Ready-to-wear Dept.

The new fall models in SUITS, COATS, SEIRTS, WAISTS, Etc. are here and show a radical change of styles from preceding seasons. The leading colors are, GRAYS, GREENS, BLUES and BROWNS. The stock is probably the largest in the state and if you have to have any READY-TO-WEAR garments you had better pick while picking's good. We are going to put prices on these goods that will place them in the reach of every customer.

Carpets.

The most extensive line we have ever had—and our stock is always large—awaits your selection.

Big room size rugs (9x12) good Brussels, $12.50 up.

We handle the Park Mills wool Ingrains—the oldest and best in the world, the yard. From that on down to Granite Ingrains at 30c yard.

We handle Blabons Linoleums, the BEST LINE MADE and are selling it for less money than you can buy inferior grades elsewhere.

Shoe Department.

YOUR FALL SHOES HAVE ARRIVED—Our line of fall shoes has been most carefully selected—The large assortment and variety of styles will give you wide range of choice.

Nobby dress shoes that must please the most fastidious, medium grades built especially for service and durability.

The strongest line of school shoes in the city. And the prices we guarantee will interest you.

We have customers every day from Parsons, Iola, Thayer, Erie, Humboldt, and other surrounding towns, who say they like to come to Rosenthal's to trade because they can get better goods for less money than they can get in their home towns. Our prices and Rosenthal's quality is standard in this section and these features are adding customers to our list every day. Get in Line, we can show you how we save you money if you'll make yourself our customer. We guarantee to sell you goods for less money than you can buy the same elsewhere or refund the money and we can back it up.
